HOME COMING DAY CLOSING

Brings Many Church Members Out

A Great Day At Pleasant Grove.

Sunday, May 15th., was an ideal day for an all day service and an out-door noonday meal. This certainly contributed very greatly to the enjoyment of the "Home Coming Day" at Pleasant Grove. The services of the day began with Sunday School at ten o'clock directed by Harry Edwards, the superintendent. There were one hundred and thirty-five in S. S., the women forging ahead of the men in the contest that is on. Following the class period, R. H. Batson of Lancaster, who was superintendent of the school forty-five years ago, gave an interesting reminiscence talk.

The morning message was on "Church Membership." In connection with the discussion of this subject by the minister an effort was made to get an accurate roll of the church members. The roll, to be sure, was not completed but a splendid beginning was made. A few nodded a little during the morning service but they shook off their drowsiness with ease when it was announced that dinner was served. Those who had been members of the church and had moved into other communities were called out to be served first, as the guests of the day. There were about fifty of them and they included one who united with the church there more than sixty-five years ago. Each guest, and then each of the remainder of the gathering, passed by the table and was served a well filled plate and hot coffee if desired. This was one part of the day's program that all present entered with real zest. There were many compliments both on the dinner and the manner in which it was served. Even it, however, was hardly more enjoyed than the social hour before the beginning of the afternoon service. Bro. E. B. Hourland, of Lancaster, was the messenger of the afternoon. He conducted a brief but impressive service for the old as well as the newly elected officers of the church. Then, after music by a mixed quartette, he delivered a splendid, constructive message on the "Problem of the Country Church." He emphasized the fact that the problem of the country church is one of the most fundamental problems of our country today. The song service of the afternoon was conducted by R. H. Batson, of Lancaster, who lead the singing there forty-five years ago. The last of the afternoon program was the giving, by the author, of a poem written by one of the guests of the day and dedicated to the old members of the "Grove" church. It was enjoyed by all and especially by those who had spent many happy hours at "the Grove."

Bros. Conan and Jones, other ministers of the community, were present and participated in the services of the afternoon. Some one said, as the people were still lingering in the yard, "This is almost the end of a perfect day."

To the members of Pleasant Grove church these words are lovingly dedicated:

We are back again in our old church home, where we've spent many happy hours.

For the days we have had in dear Pleasant Grove, gave us sunshine, far more than showers.

We rejoice when we hear of the work that you do, winning souls to the side of our King.

Go on with this work, ever keep it in mind, and a great reward it will bring.

When we look around, for many old time friends, tears nearly bedim our eyes.

For their names are no longer, for your roll-call, but they answer, "here" in the skies.

You don't know what this home-coming means, to us who have gone away.

And we can't find words that will thank you friends, for the joy you have given today.

May the Father of all, watch over each one, and keep us His own, we should pray.

'Till we meet at last in our Heavenly Home on that glorious home-coming day.

Coates, president of the Eastern Kentucky Normal School at Richmond, stating that teachers who cannot attend the regular Summer School in Richmond on June 27th. to August 19th., may attend the special classes, which start on May 31st. and will continue for six weeks. These classes will be the same as in the extension summer schools. Under the new ruling by State Superintendent Geo. Colvin all teachers are required to attend the summer school for five or more weeks during 1921 or their salaries will be cut $5 per month from the regular salary schedule. Teachers cannot receive an appointment as teacher unless they attend the teacher's institute, but if they go to the summer school this requirement will be eliminated. The Teachers' Institute will be held at Richmond on July 4th. to 8th.

BANKS TO CLOSE

Wednesday, May 25th. To Attend Bankers Convention At Lawrenceburg.

The Eighth District Bankers Convention is to convene at Lawrenceburg next Wednesday, May 25th., and in order to have a full meeting, President J. S. Hocker, of Stanford has asked that all the banks in the district close on that day in order to give the entire clerical force of each bank an opportunity to attend, which will be done. The letter from president Hocker we quote:

"Dear Bankers:—We want the Group Eight Meeting, to be held at Lawrenceburg, Ky., on May 25th., 1921, to be the heat in the history of these meetings and to this end we desire to enlist your enthusiastic support. Important matters will be discussed, and by an exchange of ideas, we hope to bring out much information that will be beneficial to all of us in these trying times. Never before have conditions, generally, demanded closer working relations, between the banks themselves, and between the banks and their customers, than at the present time, and we want this to be a regular "Get-together" Meeting for the Bankers in Group Eight.

It has been suggested, in view of the importance of the meeting, that the banks of the Eighth District declare a holiday for May 25th., and the entire clerical force accompany the Executive Officers to the meeting. This meets with the approval of the Lawrenceburg Bankers, who will furnish the entertainment, and they will be glad to have us all come. A number of Bankers have already consented to this, and all who will do so, please make arrangements at once and notify Mr. J. M. Bird, while, Lawrenceburg, Ky.

This meeting should give our clerical force, as well as ourselves, renewed interest and enthusiasm."

MANY CHANGES

Since Last Visit To Lancaster.

Mr. Phil Lyons, who lived in Garrard county nearly 60 years ago, having been born near Bryantville, was in the city for a few hours yesterday, having motored over from Danville with his friend, Mr. John Nichols. Mr. Lyons was very much interested in the many changes that have taken place in Lancaster since he left the county. He remembered then that the court house stood in the center of the public square, but the only landmark remaining is the old brick building in the corner of the square now occupied by Williams' plumbing shop. Mr. Lyons recalled vividly many happenings which took place here in his younger days, one killing on the square, being one that he remembered very clearly. He was closely connected to the late Messrs. Sam and Henry Lyons of Danville and now makes his home in Marion, Indiana.

Meeting Closes.

The week's meeting at Mt. Hebron came to a close last Sunday night, after a series of sermons conducted by the pastor, Rev. I. W. Minley. Large audience were had at every meeting and much good was accomplished. Dr. H. A. Dawes delighted all by his presence on Thursday night and Rev. L. N. Thompson on Friday night and again on Saturday night. They brought excellent sermons and were greatly enjoyed by all that heard them. Dr. Dawes is a resident of Bryantville and preaches at Perryville, while Rev. Thompson is the beloved pastor of the Forks of Dix River church.

Black Leg.

Mr. J. I. Hamilton has recently lost several nice young cattle with "black leg," which developed in his herd without any apparent warning. These cattle were vaccinated against this disease last fall. Drastic remedies are being used to stop the spread to the rest of his herd of 100 cattle.

Good Records.

The following pupils have 100 per cent attendance record at school during the entire term at Bryantville: Price Doolin, J. R. Swope, Clara Elizabeth Bruggi and Wm. Berkele.

Cow Peas, Soy Beans, Cane Seed, Hungarian Millet, Tennessee Millet, Hudson & Farnau.

SAD DEATH

Mrs. Irene Preston Is Called.

Although a sufferer for many years, her friends and near relatives were not prepared for the sudden death of Mrs. Irene Preston, which occurred at her home on Crab Orchard street in this city last Saturday evening. The immediate cause being heart trouble, but from which she had not previously suffered.

Mrs. Preston was 45 years of age and is survived by her husband, Mr. U. G. Preston, but leaving no children. She was a sister of Messrs. J. T. and Luther Raney of this city. She was a devout and consecrated member of the Scott's Fork Christian church and when her health would permit, always attended these services.

Burial took place in the Lancaster cemetery last Monday morning at 11 o'clock, the services being conducted by Rev. E. B. Hourland. The sympathy of all friends and acquaintances go out to the bereaved husband and relatives.

Death Claims

Aged Woman.

The death of Mrs. Mary Phoe Hamilton, aged 80 years, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Hallie Dunlap, last Sunday morning, closed the life of one of Garrard county's oldest and most beloved women.

For several months Mrs. Hamilton had been in declining health, but up until a few days before her death she was able to be up and enjoyed the company of friends and relatives, who called often to see her. Mrs. Hamilton was born in Garrard county and had spent most of her four score years in the county. She was a devout and consecrated member of the Methodist church and retained her membership at Mt. Olivet, the church she enjoyed so much in her younger days. She was a constant reader of the bible and could quote from memory many of its most noted chapters. She was especially drawn to the fifteenth chapter of Corinthian and could repeat it from memory, word for word. Several months before her death she requested her son, James I. Hamilton, to read this chapter at her grave and to offer a prayer, which request was granted at her funeral Monday afternoon at the Mt. Olivet church, where the funeral services took place, conducted by her pastor, Rev. A. P. Jones, interment following immediately after in the cemetery there.

Mrs. Hamilton is survived by two sons, James and Clay Hamilton of this city and three daughters, Mrs. Hallie Dunlap of this city, Mrs. Mollie May, of Covington and Mrs. Atha Dunn, of Danville.

STEWART CARSON

Announces For County Clerk Of Lincoln.

The Interior Journal recently carried a good likeness of Stewart Carson, the accommodating manager of the Western Union Telegraph office at Stanford, announcing his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for County Clerk of that county. Mr. Carson is a fine young man and has many friends in Garrard who wish him success in the race for this important office. His mother, was a Garrard county girl, formerly Miss Nell Yantis, now the wife of W. A. Carson of Lincoln. Garrard county is always interested in her kinsmen, and Mr. Carson is no exception in this case and we hope success will crown his ambitious efforts.

CRIME WAVE

Taking Hold in Garrard

A wave of crime has swept over this county. Chicken thieves visited the poultry house of Mrs. Floyd Curtis and carried off her entire flock, consisting of 140 chickens, with the exception of one lone rooster.

Recently a stranger called at the home of Mrs. Reuben Prather, near Hyattsville, telling her that a near-by neighbor sent word by him for her to come to the neighbor's residence as quickly as possible. The man then moved slowly on, and Mrs. Prather, believing her neighbor to be in urgent need of help, hurriedly went there, but on arriving learned that no message at all had been given the stranger. Mrs. Prather, upon returning home, discovered that the house had been ransacked, a ham, and $7 in money were missing. The thieves broke into the neathouse of James D. Ray near Buckeye, and stole twelve hams and middlings. No trace of the thieves has been discovered.

IRISH DENY FIGHT IS RELIGIOUS ONE

Dr. Crossfield's Statements Before K. E. A. Meeting Are Called Untrue.

RESOLUTIONS ARE ADOPTED.

Views expressed by the Rev. Dr. R. H. Crossfield, Lexington, on the Irish question at the recent meeting of the Kentucky Educational Association, have been denounced by a committee appointed at the last meeting of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic.

The committee is composed of Miss Emma Hurt, chairman; Thomas Walsh, Thomas Dolan, Catherine Shoemaker, J. J. Dowling and John O'Connor. The alleged utterance of Dr. Crossfield were said to be misleading.

The committee's resolution, which was adopted at a meeting Friday night in the office of Mr. Walsh, follows:

"Whereas, the Rev. Dr. Crossfield, Lexington, Ky., appeared before the K. E. A. at its annual meeting in that city and took unfair advantage of his position as a speaker to air his views on the Irish situation and there and then did falsely declare the question to be a religious one, which statement was uncalled for, unwarranted and untrue and was calculated to mislead the teachers of the State and those assembled there who perhaps had given but little thought to the matter.

"And whereas, said K. E. A. is a State institution and is no place for a partisan of the doctor's type to sow the seeds of English propaganda; therefore "Be it resolved that we condemn and denounce the said doctor's statement as untrue and due either to ignorance or prejudice on his part or to both, that as a matter of fact the question is not a religious one, is not so regarded in England but is purely political and so recognized by the people of Ireland who have by their votes cast twice in the last three years most decisively declared themselves in favor of independence, that they are struggling for their civil and political rights according to the same methods pursued by the American colonies 130 years ago and that the religious question is no more involved in their contention than it was in the contention and rights of the American colonies. Thus, it is self-evident the assertion he made had no foundation outside of his own brain.

"Resolved, that the said doctor violated the proprieties of the occasion when he made said statement before said institution organized and maintained as it is by the State, that we protest against him using the occasion for the spread of English propaganda that this matter shall be called to the attention of the president and retiring president of said A. A. I. R. and likewise to the notice of the Superintendent of Public Instruction of the State."

The old members of the church, returned to the community, will be the guests of the day and it is hoped that many of them will be there. Bro. E. B. Hourland, of Lancaster, will be the speaker of the afternoon and we are expecting a splendid soloist for the day also.

GOVERNOR MORROW Makes Plea For Educational Movement.

"Ignorance is a tax; education is an asset."

In Kentucky, where the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, is planning to raise $1,120,000 as its contribution to the Christian Education Movement, Governor Edwin P. Morrow has issued an endorsement of the appeal in which he dwells upon the importance of religious training as a factor in education.

Governor Morrow, who is a Presbyterian, declares that the movement "should receive a most energetic support from every right-thinking right-seeing, forward-looking man and woman in the South, and their support should be as generous as the need is great."

"Ignorance is a tax; education is an asset," Governor Morrow continues. "Ignorance is waste; education is conservation. Christian Education means not only the intellectual power of the people, but the spiritual fiber of humanity."

Christian Education is needed as never before, and in this great cause those who participate are at once the patriots of the land and soldiers of the Cross."

The appeal will be made from May 20 to June 5th. Six Kentucky schools and colleges are seeking better equipment for religious training through the results of the movement.

Back to Boyhood Days

By MURIEL BLAIR

(Ed. 1921, Western Newspaper Union.) "Lungs inactive, heart insipid, brain torpid," reported Dr. Philetus Derringer, and he tapped his patient, Thomas Matthy, three times and made a mental note of a $50 bill for his advice.

"Timothy!" observed the wealthy old bachelor—"generally lazy, eh?" "Worse than laziness, my friend," responded the notable physician gravely. "Your late suppers, lack of exercise and indolent ways generally have stored your system with poisons."

"Then get rid of them," suggested Thomas.

"Nothing but exercise will do that," was the serious response.

"You speak of exercise, doctor," said Thomas. "What do you mean—golf, walking, baths, dieting?"

"They all help, but you need additionally a spur, changed conditions, get your mind clear as well as your body. See here, did you ever hear of Prof. Septimus Gregg and his great youthful reorganization system?"

"I never did," confessed Thomas.

"You will come back with your youth renewed. Then if you take my advice, get married, and home life will do the rest."

Thus it was that two mornings later Thomas Matthy was introduced to Prof. Septimus Gregg at the doctor's office. He found the latter to be a great, fierce, boarish old fellow.

"Tommy Matthy, eh?" he spoke.

"Well, Tommy, if you're ready, to-day along with me. I've a few purchases to make and you can carry the bundles."

Thomas stared as the professor entered a department store and purchased: (1) half a dozen shoofly kites; (2) as many humming tops; (3) a dozen bags of marbles; (4) a box of bubble pipes.

"You must have a lot of children to provide for, professor?" ventured Thomas.

"Him you'll soon find out," was the gruff rejoinder.

When they reached a walled-in country place at noon that day, Thomas Matthy wondered if he had entered an asylum. A dozen men as old or older than himself greeted their arrival hotly. Some of them were barefooted. All of them were knickerbockers. They entered around like boys on a vacation. Eagerly they scrambled for the doctor's purchases. Then they hustled and frisked about like mere kids. They played marbles, blew bubbles, spun tops, flew kites.

"Now, then, make believe you're a boy again. Forget everything for one month but just that," said the professor, and Thomas was escorted to a room with a trundle bed and emerged from it wearing a juvenile costume like the others.

Thomas grinned and then laughed outright as he got onto the scheme. He was to play boy for a month. He was hailed as "Tom" on the playground.

Inside of a week Thomas Matthy had forgotten the club, late dinners and his automobile. The "boys" went fishing, swimming. They played one old cat, mumble-peg, hi-spy. They got up big appetites.

On one side of the resort was a high brick wall. Strolling near it one day, Thomas caught a tennis ball that came over its top. There were feminine cries of distress. Then a ladder top appeared. Peering over it was a fair, mischievous face, half hidden in a quaint childish sunbonnet.

"Do you see the ball, Matthy?" asked a voice below.

"Here, you, boy," called out the roguish Matthy to the astonished Thomas—"toss that lost ball over here, will you?"

Then Thomas found out that the brick wall enclosed the domain of Mrs. Prof. Gregg, who superintended the "girls' department" of the juvenile re-juvenating system. He got to thinking constantly of Matthy.

"They have a regular party here once a month," a "boy" friend told Thomas next day. "There is music, dancing, and a supper."

"Ladies, too?" inquired Thomas, hopefully.

"Yes, Mrs. Prof. Gregg and her flock. The old life toga for tonight, you know. Very formal and dignified."

Thomas never enjoyed himself as he did at the function announced. There were friendly introductions and a pleasant time all around.

When Thomas returned to the city he sought Matthy out. He called on her twice, but only had he to tell her his love to win her complete acceptance of his suit.

Returning from a year's tour of Europe one day Dr. Philetus Derringer chanced to meet Thomas. The latter, smiling, brisk and happy, hailed him with a hearty handshake that made the physician wince.

"It is plain to see that you took the juvenile cure," said the doctor.

"Yes, and won a splendid wife and a comfortable home through it all," declared Thomas. "We live next door to a glorious family with 11 children, and we're all just like kids. Doing home now to fly kites for them."

EDISON Scores Modern School Methods.

Inventor Suggests Use Of Films To Instruct Youthful Minds.

(New York World.)

Thomas A. Edison, who after a series of examinations of college men applicants for executive positions in his West Orange plant characterized the average college graduate as "amazingly ignorant," recently qualified his statement and explained that he did not blame the college for the fact that their graduates "don't seem to know anything."

"The fault lies in the primary schools," Mr. Edison told newspaper men. "It does not seem to rest with the colleges. The minds of the students apparently have become atrophied before they reach college. The college could teach them, but the students will not permit it."

Asked what fault he found with primary schools, Mr. Edison said:

"They are repulsive. I've never seen a boy who likes to go to school and he never will until they change their method of teaching. They teach by word instead of by eye with the use of motion pictures. Some time ago I lectured to children with the aid of moving pictures and they understood the principle in chemistry I was illustrating and would have stayed half the night if I had let them."

"Members of the New York Board of Education came out here at my invitation some years ago and when they had seen demonstrated my principle of teaching by the aid of moving pictures thought there as nothing like it. After they reached New York they must have forgotten all about it."

"You could teach children almost anything by means of moving pictures. The Bureau of Standards in Washington could put it over. They could make several thousand films, send them to the several States, and all the schools would have to procure would be small projectors."

Repotted Fern Will Make Better Growth.

Ferns which are to be kept in pots all summer will make more rapid growth if they are removed and repotted with fresh soil after some of the old roots have been cut away, according to N. R. Elliott, from the College of Agriculture. Such ferns should be set outside once every ten days or two weeks and sprinkled in order to remove dust and dirt which hinder growth.

You'll enjoy the sport of rolling 'em with P. A.!

FIRST thing you do next—go get some makin' papers and some Prince Albert tobacco and puff away on a home made cigarette that will hit on all your smoke cylinders!

No use sitting-by and saying maybe you'll cash this hunch tomorrow. Do it while the going's good, for man-o-man, you can't figure out what you're passing by! Such flavor, such coolness, such more-ish-ness—well, the only way to get the words emphatic enough is to go to it and know yourself!

And, besides Prince Albert's delightful flavor, there's its freedom from bite and parch which is cut out by our exclusive patented process! Certainly—you smoke P. A. from sun up till you slip between the sheets without a comeback.

Prince Albert is the tobacco that revolutionized pipe smoking. If you never could smoke a pipe—forget it! You can—AND YOU WILL!—if you use Prince Albert for packing! It's a smoke revelation in a jimmy pipe or a cigarette!

Prince Albert is sold in tippy red bags, tidy red tins, hand-some round and half-pound tin humidors and in the pound crystal glass humidors with sponge moisture top.

CANNED CHICKEN
DELICIOUS DISH
Cheaper and Easier to Can Surplus Fowls Than to Feed Them Until Wanted.
EXCELLENT FOR EMERGENCIES

Two-Year-Old Hens Are Much More Desirable Product Than Six-Month-Old Chickens—Tests Made by Experimental Kitchen.

A veritable friend in need to the busy housewife is canned chicken. A few jars of it on the storeroom shelf, which may be quickly converted into a delicious dish when unexpected company comes or when other emergencies arise, give the housekeeper a sense of preparedness. From an economic point of view, canning the surplus of the flock is an excellent

Serving the Leg From the Body at the Saddle Joint.

practice, as it is cheaper to can the birds than it is to feed them until they are wanted for the table. Nor is it necessary to have young chickens for canning, for the older birds have superior flavor and quite as good tes-ture as the younger ones. Two-year hens make a much more desirable canned product than a six-month-old chicken. The best products were obtained from plump, well-fed hens in testa recently made by the Experimental Kitchen of the United States Department of Agriculture.

How the Canning Is Done.
To prepare the bird for canning, it should be carefully plucked and all pin feathers removed; it should be then singed and washed in water in which a small amount of baking soda has been dissolved. Remove the entrails, cut the meat into pieces as for frying, and carefully wash each piece in cold water. The giblets and excess intestinal fat should not be put into the jars. The chicken may be partially cooked before being placed in the jar, being either browned in fat or steamed, but the best results have been obtained when the uncooked chicken was packed into the jars. The jars may be filled with hot water or broth or the meat may be canned without the addition of liquid. The best product has resulted when no liquid or only a small quantity (about 2 tablespoons to a pint jar) was added. The meat in jars to which no liquid was added has kept as well as that in jars filled with liquid, and has possessed a superior flavor. The following method is, therefore, recommended by the Experimental Kitchen.

Pack the pieces into pint jars. As much as a pound of chicken can often be packed into a pint jar. Two chickens weighing, before dressed, a little over 4 pounds each, when cut up for canning will fill five pint jars. For example, jar 1 may contain a thigh, leg, fillet of breast, and saddle; jar 2, a neck, wing, leg, fillet of breast, and two wish bones; jar 3, a saddle, neck, thigh, and fillet of breast; jar 4, a wing, leg, thigh, and breast bone; jar 5, a fillet of breast, thigh, 2 wings, and a leg. When the meat has been packed into the jar, add a half teaspoon of salt to each, partially seal, and process.

If a water-bath outfit is used for the processing, set the jars on a rack in the bottom of a wash boiler with sufficient water to come 2 inches above their tops. Process pint jars continuously for six hours after the water begins to boil. Seal the jars quickly upon removing from the boiler, or if glass-topped jars fastened by a spring are used, force the spring into position while the jars are still immersed. After sealing invert the jars to test for leaks while cooling.

Reduce Time of Process.
If a steam-pressure cooker is used the length of time can be greatly reduced. Fifteen pounds' pressure for one hour has been found a safe and satisfactory period.

Chicken canned in either the water bath or pressure cooker is a desirable product, comparing very favorably with fresh chicken when used for chicken salad, creamed chicken, chicken stew, chicken pie, or for scalloped or baked dishes.

The chicken in a pint jar is sufficient to serve six persons when the meat is prepared in any of the ways mentioned.

Pretty Custom of the Past.
It was the custom of the ancients to bury the young at morning twilight; for, as they strove to give the softest interpretation to death, they imagined that Aurora, who loved the young, had stolen them to her embraces.

No Question at All.
According to Doctor Waller, "the emotive response" is found in the palm of the hand and the sole of the foot.
Everyone who has had experience of railway porters or potential father-in-laws will readily agree—l'assing

Life Getting More Complex.

length of a woman's second toe indicates her disposition, and he warns us against women with long ones.
What the dickens! Must the fellow who goes courting carry along an X-ray machine?—Houston Transcript.

Look at Things Calmly.
Much depends on personal attitude.
One who is antagonistic to or prejudiced against a thing fails to get what good there may be in it. One who is in a "receptive mood" generally obtains the most benefit. Men cheat themselves oftener than they are cheated by others.

Cross on Fox's Back.
The American red fox is found in many localities from Canada to Georgia, and westward to the great plains, says the American Forestry Magazine. When it exhibits a dark cross on the back and shoulders, it is known as the Cross fox, and when the animal is all black with a white-tipped tail, it is called the Black fox.

Sugar Once Considered Medicine.
Sugar was at first sold by apothecaries, both as a medicine and as a thing to sweeten and make other medicines more palatable, for in those days a medicine which was not bitter and nauseous was not considered effective. The sugar habit grew on people, the production was stimulated and today the whole world uses it as food.

INDIVIDUALS DIFFER ON FOOD MATERIALS

Each Person Should Experiment
With Himself.

Food Specialists Say Too Much Is as Bad as Too Little—Economical to Avoid Expensive Cuts of Meats and Fruits.

As the habits and conditions of individuals differ, so, too, their needs for nourishment differ, and their food should be adapted to their particular requirements. Each person should learn by experience what kinds of food yield him nourishment with the least discomfort, and should avoid those which do not agree with him.

Too much food is as bad as too little, and occasions a waste of energy and strength in the body as well as a waste of nutritive material, say food specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. While in the case of some foods as purchased, notably meats, some waste is unavoidable, the pecuniary loss can be diminished, both by buying those kinds in which there is the least waste, and by utilizing more carefully than is ordinarily done portions of what is usually classed as refuse. Much of the waste may be avoided by careful planning so as to provide a comfortable and appetizing meal in sufficient amount, but without excess.

If strict economy is necessary, the cheapest cuts of meat and the more expensive fruits and vegetables should be avoided. With reasonable care in cooking and serving a pleasing and varied diet can be furnished at moderate cost. It should not be forgotten that the real cheapness or dearthness of a food material depends not only on its market price, but also on the cost of its digestible nutrients. It should always be remembered that
"the ideal diet is that combination of foods which, while imposing the least burden on the body, supplies it with exactly sufficient material to meet its wants," and that any disregard of such a standard must inevitably prevent the best development of our powers.

Tip for Washing Blankets.
A laundry should be selected for washing blankets, so that they will dry quickly.

Soothing to Eyes.
A decoction of chamomile flowers, or tea, is very soothing to inflamed, strained eyes.

SOAP SUBSTITUTES FAVORED

Soapbark, Starch Water or Bran Water Are Not Likely to Injure Delicate Colors.

When the action of soap is likely to injure a delicate color, use soapbark, starch water, or bran water, advise home economics specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Soapbark, although not a soap, when boiled in water will form suds. To prepare it for use, boil for 10 minutes a cup of the bark with 1 quart of water; then cool and strain the liquid.
The "soapy" water may be used full strength for sponging, or diluted for washing; half of this amount is enough for one-half tubful of water.
Since the liquid is brownish, it should be used only on dark-colored goods.

Starch water is especially good for cleaning delicate cotton fabrics. This is usually made by adding thin starch paste to the wash water. Water in which rice has been boiled, if it is not discolored, may be used instead.
If it is not desirable to have the material starched slightly, it must be rinsed in salt water.

Bran water, made in the same way as soapbark solution, is useful with colors that are likely to fade. It does not give suds, but cleans like starch water.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Paint stains will disappear if ether is applied on wrong side of fabric.

Meat left-over cooked fish with curry, place in a border of cooked rice and reheat.

Sheeted towels can be washed in warm soapy water, just as flannels are washed.

In heading a velvet bag, staple the design on the wrong side and it will be easier to see.

Sweet sandwiches of jelly or conserve or fruit and nuts may often be used instead of cakes for the lunch.

A little smoked halibut cut very thin and served with thin slices of bread and butter is good for a light evening meal.

Crush a few celery seeds and sprinkle over the crisp parts of cabbage.
Soak the cabbage and celery seed in ice water for an hour and use in place of celery in the salad.

TIRE PRICES
TAKE BIG CROP
Fifteen Per Cent Lower
Than Pre-War Schedules In 1913.

A careful analysis of tire prices indicates that they are actually low. On May 2nd, rubber companies announced a 20 per cent reduction, which established what is undoubtedly a new level for the season of 1921. This reduction brings prices down to a point 15 per cent below the pre-war schedules as represented by the 1913 level. According to Bradstreet's Index, general commodity prices have risen 23 per cent during the same period. It is rather startling to find that in 1920 tire prices were 115 per cent higher than today. The lowest point in the history of tire prices was in 1915.

Any discussion of tire prices, however, is incomplete unless comparative values are considered. The question is: How many miles do I get from my tires today? And how does this compare with what I received in 1915? Beginning with 1915 and the war standardization movement, which extended over a period of several years, tremendous strides have been made in quality and in the mileage service of tires. The extent to which this is true is not realized by the motoring public. Yet this increase in service is actually measurable. In the first place, consider the actual increase in size. For instance cord tires made by the leading companies are uniformly 10 per cent over the rated size. Specialization in the production and preparation of raw materials has been of incalculable benefit to tire quality. Remarkable progress has been made in the art of compounding rubber to produce the maximum degree of wear. These salient factors have been supplemented by improved methods of manufacture which have resulted in a uniformity of quality and service absolutely unknown a few years ago. A tangible expression of the greater mileage service now being built into tires is reflected by the higher basis of adjustment generally used by the leading companies.

It is not a far-fetched conclusion to say that tires today give from 50 per cent to 100 per cent greater mileage than they did a few years ago. Therefore, if the tire companies were selling mileage today at the 1915 price level, tires would actually cost from $5 to $25 more than at present. The conclusion is obvious, therefore, that based on comparative service tires cost less today than ever before.

Leaders of the industry frankly state that the recent price readjustment is not warranted by their actual factory production costs but that it represents an earnest effort to meet the wishes of the Administration and the general public in the establishment of lower price levels on high all classes of trade can unite and transact business.

Quit Laxatives,
Purges; Try NR

NR Tonight—Tomorrow Feel Right

It is a mistake to continually dose yourself with so-called laxative pills, cathartics, oil, purges and cathartics and force bowel action. It weakens the bowels and liver and makes constant dosing necessary.

Why don't you begin right today to overcome your constipation and get your system in such shape that daily purging will be unnecessary? You can do so if you get a 25c box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and take one each night for a week or so. NR Tablets do much more than merely cause pleasant easy bowel action. CLEANING THE DOG

"THIS is the most wonderful soap ever offered the public," explained the voluble agent, as he opened his grip. "It will clean anything under the sun. It will remove grease spots, polish tinware—"

"Oh, I have no doubt it will restore hair to bald heads and make chickens lay eggs," said Mrs. Curfew, sarcastically. "I feel quite satisfied it's made of bark and buns and healing herbs, but I don't want any of your marvelous soap, having had experience with other marvels of the same kind. Last fall an agent came along, selling a soap that would do everything you can think of, from beautifying the female complexion to chasing the cows out of the corral. The agent talked as though he had eighty-odd works in him, like our old grandfather's clock, and he didn't make any impression until he said the soap would heal all skin diseases of man or beast. It happened at that period that Mr. Curfew had an imitation bird dog that he traded a good watch for, and gave a dollar to boot, said dollar having been extracted from my private savings, and never returned.

"This dog had the mange or some disagreeable disease that caused him to itch in the most reprehensible manner. He was always scratching and rubbing against everything he could find, first and last. One day he upset my parlor table and broke all my best china, which I had placed on the table a few minutes before. He also upset the sewing machine and the 'shurn, and I don't know what else.

"So when Mr. Curfew heard that the agent's soap would cure skin diseases, he insisted upon buying a cake, and after he had gone he began to wash the dog with this marvelous soap. I don't know what ingredients said soap contained, but after it was rubbed into the dog's skin that unfortunate animal became frantic and acted as though his reason tottered on its throne. Mr. Curfew tried to hold the beast, and it reached around and bit his ear almost off, and of course he released it then, and the uproar he made, as he danced around the house, holding his ear with one hand, and summoning the police with the other was simply scandalous.

"Meanwhile the dog ran off, entirely demoralized. Mrs. Turpentine was crossing the road pushing her baby buggy, when the animal collided with said vehicle, and spilled her offspring into the mud. I am willing to admit that such an experience was aggravating, but I don't think it was as likely in Mrs. Turpentine to come over to my house with her muddy infant under her arm, and shake her fist under my nose, and tell me that for five cents she'd pull all my hair out.

"Old Mr. Poppinjay was standing in the corner, leaning on his cane, waiting for a street car, when the crazy dog ran against his cane and he took a header into the gutter, and I really felt sorry for him when I saw him going home ten minutes later, dripping slush and mud like a sea-serpent, but I couldn't sympathize with him so very much when he picked up a brick as he was passing our place and smashed a panel in our front door.

"For two days people were coming here claiming that we ought to reimburse them for damages done by that dog. It seemed that the unfortunate animal made a circuit of the town, and left a trail of desolation behind him. He upset six pans of milk for Mrs. Trumpeter, and scared Smith's family horse so it ran away and injured several members of the family, and killed eight prize chickens for Mr. Dippy, and I don't know what else. In view of which, I think we can struggle along without any of your marvelous soap."

An Intellectual.

"You often hear it said that Mrs. Githery has all the brains in the Githery family."

"But Mr. Githery is a successful business man."

"Oh, yes. However, he merely makes money. While sipping tea and smoking a perfumed cigarette, Mrs. Githery can discuss more abstruse questions that have nothing to do with housework, or the upbringing of the Githery twins than any other woman in her set."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Blocks Easily Removed.

A prominent tradesman in southwest London expostulated with a gang of road repairers regarding a small mountain of wood blocks dumped in front of his premises.

The protest being ignored, he surreptitiously stuck a card, bearing the inscription: "Please take one," on the offending heap.

The philanthropic suggestion was quickly acted on by passers-by, and more than half the blocks had disappeared before a vigilant policeman removed the card.—London Express.

Washington's Religion.
There has been considerable controversy over the extent to which religious belief entered into Washington's character. His own chronicles show that most of his Sundays, except during the presidency, when he felt obliged to set an example, he spent in answering letters, going over his accounts, hunting or doing any business that those with whom he was negotiating had no scruples in choosing people to work for him he let up no barriers of creed, judging men from the standpoint of honesty, industry and ability.

MASH FEED During Summer Keeps Up Egg Production.

Feeding mash to the poultry flock during the summer months is one of the surest means of maintaining a high egg production in the opinion of A. J. Culver, Hopkinsville who is conducting a demonstration in co-operation with the College of Agriculture on his flock of White Leghorn hens. Mr. Culver fed a mash recommended by the college of his flock during April and secured an average egg production of 20.1 eggs from each of the 900 hens. He has stated that he will continue to feed the mash throughout the summer.

The mash which the Christian county farmer is feeding is composed of 40 pounds of 60% quarts of ship-stuff, 20 pounds or 18 quarts of corn meal, 20 pounds or 16 1/2 quarts of ground oats and 20 pounds or 11 quarts of tankage.

In feeding the mash, Mr. Culver keeps the flock confined until 10 o'clock in the morning during which time they receive nothing but the mash and plenty of water. In this way they eat it before ranging around and since it is quickly digested they are still anxious to find more feed. He has found that by feeding grain in the morning the tendency of the birds to range and search for more food is discouraged. When the birds come back to roost in the evening they are given what grain they will readily eat in order that they may go to roost with their appetites satisfied.

Advantages pointed out by Mr. Culver in keeping the flock confined until 10 o'clock in the morning are that it keeps the hens laying in the house and on rainy days keeps the nests and eggs clean, an important point if the eggs are to bring the highest price. He also has the flock confined if he wishes to cull out any birds or dust the hens for lice.

"I find that by ranging around on the farm the hens cannot pick up all the feed which they require to produce the maximum number of eggs. Since they must have plenty of tankage or milk, the surest way to have them consume this material is to confine them in the house each morning until 10 o'clock," Mr. Culver said.

New Tobacco Disease Known As "Blue Mold."

Further damage to seed beds in all tobacco growing sections of the country is threatened by a new disease known as "the tobacco blue mold," which has just recently made its appearance in the United States, according to a warning received by Dr. W. D. Valleau, plant pathologist of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington.

As yet the disease has not made its appearance in Kentucky, Dr. Valleau stated, but he has asked that all farmers take precautions and report symptoms of trouble in their plant beds in to the experiment station. The disease first made its appearance in Gadsden county, Florida, and within a short time had infected practically all of the cigar wrapper tobacco area in the Florida-Georgia district, causing heavy losses.

Advertising Pays.

In picking up a certain magazine last week we noted that advertising pages contained $6000 ad for the lowly shoe string, another of the same size for a 15 cent can of smoking tobacco, another of higher price for the stuff that makes raisin pies—and mash, too; another even higher in price for a bar of soap and others for almost everything from invisible dress fasteners up through the hosiery line to face lotions—and still there are very few who say it does not pay to advertise. If a manufacturer can carry a series of advertisements costing hundreds of thousands of dollars a year to advertise a certain brand of shoe string or other nickel articles, what does advertising mean to the retailer? The word "advertising" is the distinguishing mark between the "store-keeper" and the merchant—Standard Waukon, Iowa.

Lancaster School Notes

This is the last week of school work for the last term of the school year. Although we lose some of our very best teachers, school will be resumed, for the first term of the year '21 after vacation. This has been Mr. Boyd's first year but in this short time he has become a favorite not only among the pupils but also among the parents and town people. We are certainly glad he is coming back next year and we feel sure that next year will be just as successful as the past one.

The seniors feel very sad and blue this week for they realize that their work at L. H. S. is almost over, that they must now separate and will never have the good old High School times again, that they must go away and meet new friends and they all wish that they could live again those good old high school years.

High school pupils will be exempt from final examination at the end of the second term (1) Who have no unexcused, absent or tardy marks, (2) whose department is not below 90 for any month and (3) whose average class standing is 90.

These conditions are closely met by the average pupil, and the reward is enough to justify an honest effort on the part of every pupil.

Grins and Groans.

Teacher—"Automobiles are spoiling more children than any other one thing."

Parents—"Yes, but look at the children who are spoiling automobiles."

Who is the most important fellow in school? S. D. Cochran is Sophomore, Junior and Senior.

"Of all sad words of tongue or pen—

The saddest are: "Exams again."

Martha Ward—"Have you commenced to write your president's address?"

Clyde—"Yes, I have five thousand words already."

Martha Ward—"My Goodness!"

Clyde—"Yes, I've taken the first five thousand words from the dictionary. I'll arrange them later."

This was heard in the Senior Class in Miss Robinson's room just after the seniors had bought their invitations:

Miss Robinson—"Show how the word 'plenty' is used incorrectly." (nearly class in unison) "We have plenty of money—that's incorrect."

Miss Heard (in Physics) Can you give me an illustration of the use of hot air, Henry?"

(Henry makes a long incoherent recitation.)

Miss Heard—"Yes, Henry, that recitation is a very good example."

A model Examination Paper.

Describe McClellan's campaign in the East during the Civil War.

(Answer) Well McClellan he advanced into Canada, there he found a lot of campaign. He gave this to his soldiers. This caused a civil war between the North and South in 1812.

II. Describe the battle of Gettysburg, giving date, number of participants on either side, and number of wounded.

(Ans.) The Battle of Gettysburg was fought during war of 1713. There wasn't nothing to participate in, so of course neither side got it. The result was indelicate.

III. When did Lee surrender? What were peace terms and to who?

Ans. I am not going to tell an unexpected truth and you needed expect it.

Two Famous Echoes.

One of the most famous sources of echoes in the world is the "Whispering Gallery" in the dome of St. Paul's cathedral, London, where even the slightest whisper or the sound made by the ticking of a watch returns distinctly after the lapse of a few seconds. There is an echo near Hagen, in Germany, which will toss a sound to and fro no fewer than 17 times.

Webster's Place in History.

While acting as the organ of the government in foreign affairs Webster showed that his powers as a diplomatist were scarcely inferior to his legal and oratorical endowments, but it is as secretary of state that he is least thought of now. His country proudly thinks of him as one whose brain and voice did more to inspire Americanism than any other man between Washington and Lincoln; as the greatest Federalist since Hamilton; as the finest exponent of the Constitution since Marshall.

Overhaul Canning Out- fit Now To Prevent Any Delay.

In order to begin the canning operations when fruits and vegetables are at their best it is necessary to overhaul the canning now, taking stock of jars, rubbers and other necessary articles and preparing in a general way for the rush, home economics specialists from the College of Agriculture suggest. Delay from day to day in canning result in overgrown or over-ripe products which are more or less wooden and lacking in flavor. Rhubarb, asparagus and spinach are things which can be canned now and which should have a place in every home pantry.

STATE DEATH RATE LOWERED

State Tuberculosis Association Holds Annual Meeting

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED.

As a direct result of the work that has been carried on by the Kentucky Tuberculosis Association in the State during the last two years, the death rate from the disease has fallen from 195.5 per one hundred thousand of population in 1918 to 157.2 in 1920, Dr. J. S. Lock, secretary of the association and director of the State Board of Health's Bureau for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, said in his report at the association's annual meeting here yesterday.

Tenety-two dispensaries now are functioning in the State his report also stated. Two strictly tuberculosis clinics are in operation and are doing splendid work in finding early cases of the disease. Intensive work already has been done in Boyd, Scott, Mercer and Mason Counties and is to be undertaken in the near future in Davis, Fulton, Muhlenburg and Harlan counties.

C. L. Adler of Louisville was re-elected the association's president and Dr. Lock its secretary. Miss Jessie O. Yancy and Miss Marian Williamson also were re-elected, respectively, secretary for Modern Health Crusade work and supervisor of nursing.

GARDEN

Does Much Toward
Providing Family Living.

If well-planned and well-kept the average garden will do much toward providing a living for any ordinary family, specialists in the home economics department of the College of Agriculture say.

Plans should be made to include all the old favorite vegetables and some which are little grown at present in spite of the fact that they are of much value and needed in a good healthful diet. Among these are spinach and carrots. Old fashioned spinach will furnish greens for the early spring months while the New Zealand variety will keep up the supply all through the summer season. The family garden should be a partnership affair that is the work and pride of the entire household, the specialists state.

Editors Are Guaranteed Good Time At Danville

(Louisville Times.)

Plenty of entertainment will be provided for members of the Kentucky Press Association when they gather at Danville for the annual mid-summer meeting Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, June 6, 7, 8th., according to a bulletin being sent out by Secretary J. Curtis Alcock, editor of the Danville Messenger, to members throughout the State. The dates were selected on account of the annual commencement exercises of Centre College at that time, and Vice President Calvin Coolidge has been asked to deliver an address on this occasion.

The Kentucky College for Women has offered to furnish its grounds and buildings as headquarters for the K. P. A. and to furnish rooms and meals for the delegates. After the opening Monday the delegates will adjourn for the Centre Vanderbilt game. Monday night will be "Gala Night" at Centre College and there will be much to entertain the visitors. A second ball game is on the program for Tuesday and Danville Chamber of Commerce will give a banquet for that night.

On the final day, after officers are elected and the business over, the Centre College Carnival ceremonies will be held and the crowning of the King and Queen of the Carnival and the carnival dance in the evening.

Miss Margaret Scott and Mr. Elbert Teater surprised their family and friends on last Wednesday by driving to Stanford, where they were united in marriage by Rev. Arnold, of that city.

Mrs. Teater is the second daughter of Mr. Jas. A. Scott, of Paint Lick, and a beautiful and accomplished young woman. Mr. Teater is a son of Mr. Allen Teater of this county, and is a prominent farmer of sterling worth and honor.

The best wishes of a host of friends go with them as they journey through life.

Tonic for Flowers.

The water in which beef has been washed before cooking makes an excellent tonic for roses and geraniums.

Mildly Smoked Long Ago.

Smoking among women started when Sir Walter Raleigh offered the "divine weed" to Queen Elizabeth, but he almost paid the penalty with his life. So very sick did the few whiffs of tobacco make the royal lady that courtiers whispered Master Raleigh had poisoned her, and dark looks were his portion. Her highness recovered, however, and took a truly Elizabethan revenge by making the countess of Nottingham and all her maids smoke out a whole pipe among them.

Reed and Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller.

In October.

October 17 (1895)—Some of the oaks are now a deep brown red; others are changed to a light green, which at a little distance, especially in the sunshine, looks like the green of early spring. In some trees, different masses of the foliage show each of these hues. Some of the walnut trees have a yet more delicate green. Others are of a bright sunny yellow. —Nathaniel Hawthorne, "American Note-Book."

Castle Has Unique History.

One of the oldest and most fascinating English castles, "The Saltwood," near Ighite, has a unique history. The castle is over 1,500 years old. It was built by Olaf, son of Hengist, in 449, and rebuilt by Henry de Essex, the king's standard bearer, in about 1100. The famous Thomas a Becket's murderers met there in 1162 and laid their plans. During the reign of King John it was noted as the residence of the archbishop of Canterbury.

Three Species of Giraffe.

Dr. Samuel Johnston did not quite cover the facts when in his celebrated dictionary, he defined the giraffe as "an Abyssinian animal taller than the elephant, but not so thick." As a matter of fact, there are at least three species of giraffe—the one with two horns, long familiar to us, and the second, that dwells in northeastern Africa, and shows a third frontal horn (in old bulls), or, in the Uganda variety, with as many as five small horns on its crown. In the second species the patches in the network of coloring are larger and of a brighter chestnut than in the ordinary kind.

MAPLE SIRUP SUPPLY FOR FAMILY

Boiling Maple Sap in Kettles.

(Prepared by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.)
In sections where sugar-maple trees grow, or where sugar cane or sorghum are grown, the farmer may produce all the sirup the family consumes. Many farmers of the North Atlantic states produce their own maple sirup, and in the southern states the home production of cane and sorghum sirup is even more common. Sorghum is also grown to a considerable extent in parts of the North. It is not unusual for southern families to produce ten to 25 gallons of sirup for home consumption, making a very important contribution to the family living.

IMPLEMENTS FOR CLEANING HOUSE

Proper Tools and Materials Are Essential for Performing Tasks Easily and Quickly.

KEEP THEM IN RIGHT PLACE

Ideal Arrangement is to Have Complete Set Stored in Orderly Manner in Convenient and Well-Ventilated Closet.

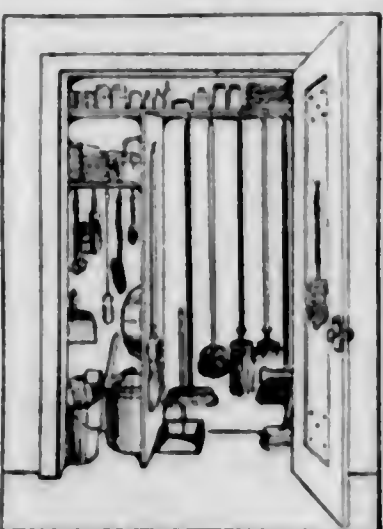

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

No matter how carefully the housekeeper plans her daily, weekly, and semiannual housecleaning, it can not be done easily and quickly without suitable cleaning tools and materials. If they are kept together in one place, they bother and nerve strength are saved. If they are given good care, money is saved.

The ideal arrangement is to have a complete set stored in orderly fashion in a convenient, well-ventilated closet. Whether a few or many kinds are needed, it is economical to buy well-made, durable tools and keep them in good condition and grouped together. If possible, it is well to have on each floor a supply of some of the things most constantly used.

Give Tools Good Care.

As far as possible, cleaning tools should be put away clean and ready for use. Brooms, brushes and mops should be hung by strings or screw eyes fastened to the handles so that the weight does not rest on the bristles or strings. Carpet sweepers also should be set so that the weight does not come on the brushes. The hair and lint which accumulate in brushes, especially in carpet sweepers, may be taken out with an old button-hook, a coarse comb or old scissors. Carpets should be washed in hot suds, but care must be taken not to let the water rust the wires which hold the bristles to the handle. Bristle brushes may be washed with lukewarm water and a little ammonia.

When Possible Devote Closet to Cleaning-Day Supplies.

(3 teaspoonfuls dilute ammonia to the quart) or borax (1 teaspoonful to the quart) and then rinsed in clear water. Water is likely to injure the back of a brush and to loosen the cement by which the bristles are held in place in the less expensive mops. The brush, therefore, should not be covered with water, but should be washed by scrubbing the bristles back and forth in shallow water; it should be dried with the bristles down or with the weight resting on the side of the brush. The drying should be done quickly, but not in an intense heat. Drying in sunlight whitens light bristles. The weighted bristle brush used in polishing floors should be washed occasionally to prevent the accumulation of dirt and wax from darkening the wood.

Renewing Oiled Mops.

Mops may be washed in hot suds and rinsed in clear, hot water; they should be quickly dried. Dry mops may be oiled or oiled mops renewed by pouring a few drops of light lubricating oil or any good floor oil into an old dish or a tin box and setting the mop in those for a day or two; or the mop may be sprinkled with a little oil and allowed to stand until the oil spreads through the strings.

The initial cost of implements of good quality may be a trifle greater than those of poorer grade, but substantial ones generally give longer and better service and are more economical in the end. Before buying an especially expensive cleaning device or one used occasionally, such questions as the following should be considered: Will it be used enough to justify the cost? How much care in cleaning and storing will it require? Will it really save time and energy? Will it make some especially disagreeable task less unpleasant? A few well-chosen implements give better service and require less care than a large collection bought haphazard.

REMOVING DIRT FROM WALLS

A Brush or Broom Covered With Soft Cloth Should Be Used—Avoid Rubbing Too Hard.

Ordinary plastered and papered walls and ceilings should be cleaned with a wall brush or a broom covered with soft cloth, such as cotton flannel. Light overlapping strokes should be used; heavy strokes rub the dirt in. Cotton flannel is good for cleaning places that soil more quickly than the rest—for example, the wall over radiators, registers and stoves. The wall should be rubbed lightly with the cotton, which should be turned as it becomes soiled.

There are commercial pastes and powders for cleaning wall papers, but, in general, these should be applied only by an expert. An amateur is likely to have a streaked wall if he attempts to use them.

The so-called washable papers used in kitchens and bathrooms may be cleaned with a dampened cloth, but water must be used sparingly; if it seeps in, the paper will be loosened. Varnishing the paper in these rooms will make it more nearly impervious to moisture and steam and will prevent it from peeling. Household specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture say.

Household Questions

Lime and iron both are found in apples. Lime is essential to digestion and iron to life itself.

ROOSTERS

To Get It In The Neck.

Special Price For "Rooster Week."

Roosters are to have a special price placed on their heads during "Rooster Week," May 23 to 28th, according to J. Holmes Martin, in charge of the poultry work of the College of Agriculture, who today announced that a number of produce houses in the State have agreed to co-operate in exterminating roosters during the summer months by offering two to three-cent premium per pound on those marketed that week.

The State Board of Health has also agreed to co-operate in the campaign and will distribute circulars on the care and handling of eggs in addition to seeing that all State rules in regard to the candling of eggs are enforced.

Roosters running in the poultry flock during the summer months cause farmers heavy losses each year, poultry specialists state, by producing fertile eggs which spoil rapidly during warm weather and are discriminated against on the market.

The object of "Rooster Week" is to show farmers the need for killing, confining or selling all male birds during the warm months. While the campaign is expected to reach its height during the week of May 23 to 28th, many roosters are expected to make their final crow during the weeks before and after that time.

More than 20 of the largest poultry dealers in the State have signed their intentions of co-operating in the campaign for the production of infertile eggs and it is expected that practically all produce houses in Kentucky will take part in the project.

GIVES REASONS FOR DEPRESSION

Rail Chief Declares Freight Charges Not the Cause of Stagnation.

FARM PRODUCTS ARE CITED

Business Depression and Lack of Demand the Real Trouble.

Washington, D. C. In testifying before the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce which is conducting an inquiry into the railroad situation, Julius Kruttschnitt, chairman of the board of the Southern Pacific company, went into great detail as to the effect of freight rates on produce shipments, foreign and domestic. The main points he made in this part of his testimony were:

First—That business depression is not the result of high freight rates.

Second—That the real cause of stagnation in produce shipments is lack of market or profligate.

He said in part: A widespread propaganda is being carried on to arouse public sentiment against existing freight rates, whereas the fact is that even since the rate-hike has been advanced the cost of transporting commodities is far less than the toll taken by the commission merchant and the retailer for buying and selling them.

Public Misled as to Situation People are misled and conclude that high rates have stopped the movement of a large amount of freight and that the railways would make more money if they would reduce the rates and thereby revive the traffic.

There is the strongest reason to believe that the very great reduction in traffic has been due almost entirely to general business conditions that are world-wide in their effect, and that would have come if there had been no advance in freight rates.

Prices of commodities reached their maximum in the first half of the year 1920 and thereafter fell with great rapidity in France, the United States and the United Kingdom. The fall in the United States began in May, and was rapidly on its way downward in September, when the advanced rates took effect. Nevertheless traffic did not drop for at least four months.

Slump Not Caused by Higher Rates It was a general depression and fall in prices from the heights to which they had been driven by war conditions that has caused a stagnation of business throughout the world.

That it is not caused by the cost of transportation is conclusively shown by the fact that stoppage of buying has caused an oversupply of ships, hence ocean tonnage rates have been recently at the lowest points in their history.

Notwithstanding these low rates, ocean traffic shows no great stagnation as rail traffic, and millions of tons of shipping here and abroad are rusting away in idleness. Many commodities would not move even if the freight charges on them were abolished entirely, because producers can find no market.

That the decline in business is not due to prohibitive freight rates is shown by the following examples:

In January of this year the total tonnage of lines west of El Paso and Ogden declined by the Southern Pacific Company fell off 41 per cent. The combined intrastate freight tonnage in Arizona and Nevada declined 50 per cent although no increase in the intrastate freight rates in those States has been as yet authorized or made effective. This decrease embraced grain, hay and livestock, as well as ores and other commodities.

COTTON UNMOVED FOR LACK OF MARKETS

A Texas cotton crop of over four million bales, 48 per cent remains unmarketed. The average cost of rail and water shipment from producing point to Liverpool has been reduced about $1.25 per 100 pounds, in the face of which about one-half million bales of cotton less than normal have been exported to Liverpool. Obviously the freight rate is not responsible for the restricted movement.

During September, October, and November, 1920, 45 per cent less rice, 50 per cent less canned salmon and 75 per cent less dried fruit were exported than during the same months of the previous year, although the reduction in ocean rates was substantially more than the increase in inland rail rates, so that the material decline in the reports of these commodities was in the face of a less aggregate cost of transportation.

The Case of the Fruit Growers

The troubles of the California lemon grower have attracted much attention. He claims he is unable to ship his product because of the increased freight rates. A removal of all the recent increase of the rate on lemons would not help him. He has a rate by sea through the Panama Canal of less than half—48 per cent—of the rail rate, yet his lemons are not marketed.

The average price of a cantaloupe laid down in New York in the season of 1920 was not quite 11 cents. As they were retailed at about 25 cents, there is a further profit to somebody of 14 cents per cantaloupe.

The managers of the propaganda for a general reduction of freight rates have lost sight of the fact that in October, 1920, 1,165,321 carloads of coal were moved, being the maximum moved in any month in the preceding two years, although it was hampered at the advanced freight rates, and we have heard nothing as to coal being produced at a loss or of the coal mine owners going out of business because of existing freight rates.

The percentage of freight charges to value in the bulk part of 1921 is almost exactly the same as it was in 1914.

Sweetness of Spring Air.

The soft sound of water moving among thousands of grass blades is to the hearing as the sweetness of spring air to the scent. It is so faint and so diffused that the exact spot whence it issues cannot be discerned, yet it is distinct, and my footsteps are slower as I listen. Yonder, in the corners of the mead, the atmosphere is full of some ethereal vapor. The sunshine stays in the air there as if the green hedges held the wind from brushing it away.—Richard Jefferies.

The Dog as Human Food.

The dog forms an important article of food among many nations. In China, the Society Islands, etc., young puppies are considered a great delicacy, and are sold by Europeans who have overcome their prejudices, to be very sweet and palatable. The taste for dog's flesh is of very early origin. The ancients regarded a young and fat dog as excellent food; and Hippocrates placed it on a footing with mutton and pork. The Romans were fond of sucking-puppies, and sacrificed them to the gods.

CULTIVATE CORN TO HELP YIELD

Thorough, Early Plowing Encourages Plant Growth and Prevents Soil Crusting.

DESTROYS ALL YOUNG WEEDS

Successful Growers Favor Shallow Cultivation, Except Where Excessive Rains Have Packed Soil—Maintain Dust Mulch.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

From the time of germination to maturity corn should be given every opportunity to make a steady, sound growth. If the development of the plants is checked from any cause it may reduce the yield no matter how favorable the later treatment. The most successful corn growers realize the importance of thorough, early cultivation in order to prevent any check in the growth of the plants because of weeds or crusted soil. As a consequence of heavy rainfall, the stalks may increase rapidly in height and at the same time, for lack of cultivation or of soil fertility, or for other reason, they may be slender, too tender or of poor color. Thrifty corn plants are thick, strong, and of dark-green color.

Use Weeder Soon After Planting.
Horse weeder and harrows should be used when needed to break a surface crust, check insect depredations or kill young weeds that start before the corn is up. While the plant is very small, narrow shovels that throw the soil but very little should be used, and fenders are usually desirable to prevent covering the plants.

Experience favors shallow cultivation, except if excessive rains have packed the soil, when deep cultivation will help to dry and aerate the ground. In cultivating it is important to avoid breaking the roots of the plants. If the plants have reached a height of 2 or 3 feet the soil in the middle of the rows should not be cultivated deeper than 4 inches, and sometimes less. For retaining soil moisture a loose soil mulch 2 or 3 inches in depth should be maintained.

The question is frequently asked how often corn should be cultivated.

A Two-Row Wheeled Cultivator Does Effective Work.

The answer is that it should be cultivated often enough to keep down weeds and to maintain constantly a loose soil mulch until the corn has attained its growth. A greater number of cultivations will be necessary when rains at intervals of about a week cause the surface soil to run together and crust. This crust must be broken and the soil mulch restored, or evaporation will soon rob the soil of much of its moisture. An essential object of cultivation is to restore the soil mulch as soon after a rain as the condition of the ground will permit. If the ground becomes hard and baked dry the crop will suffer greatly and when cultivated the dirt will break up into clods.

Many crops are cut short by stopping the cultivation because the corn is too tall for use of a two-row cultivator. If the condition of the soil demands it, shallow cultivation should continue, even though the corn is tasseling. Blocks pulled to the handles will protect the hands from the corn blades. Iron mowing-machine wheels dragged between the rows will sometimes greatly benefit the crop.

Saving of Labor.
With a good riding or walking double cultivator one man can cultivate as many acres as two men with one-row cultivators. This saving of labor is worth consideration. With a properly constructed wheeled cultivator, covering two rows at a time, one man has often cultivated 15 acres per day.

The shovels with which it is best to equip either single or double cultivators must be determined by the kind of soil, the size of the corn, and also the nature of growth of weeds to be destroyed. For sandy land sweeps are in great favor, and vary from 6 to 30 inches in width. The sweep scrapes along through the soil at a depth of 2 to 3 inches, cutting off weeds and allowing surface soil to pass over them, falling level and flat behind the cultivator.

There are but two ways of paying debt—Increase of industry in raising your income—Increase of thrift in laying it out.—Carlyle.

Question for Astronomers.
One bright moonlight night my little four-year-old sister was playing on the front lawn. Presently the little one gazed at the sky intently for a few minutes and then queried, "Oh, ah, when the sun sets does it hatch the moon?"—Chicago American.

To Clean Oil Paintings.
A simple way to clean oil paintings, and one that will not injure the colors beneath the dirt, is to cut a raw potato in half and rub it quickly over the painted surface. Then polish with a silk handkerchief to remove dust or dirt.

Read This to Husband.
"A new effect is to have trousers shirred or plaited immediately above the spot where the center crease terminates. This helps to make one's trousers fit better and wrinkle less. If a handkerchief, a waistlet or other trifles be carried in the side pockets, thus tending to cause a strain across the waist, the shirring automatically tenses this out."—Hearst.

Artistic Scottish Celts.
The "Bonnet Piece" was the name given to a beautiful coin of pure gold issued under the reign of James V of Scotland, the name being given because the head of the king on the coin was covered with a Scotch bonnet in place of the proverbial crown. James was the first sovereign to place dates on coins issued, and coins he approved were exquisitely designed.

Oil and Literature.
We venture to say that the struggle for iron and oil will produce no such romantic recitals as Stewart Edward White's "Gold," nor such vivid California stories as those of Bret Harte, nor the Alaskan adventure tales of Rex Beach and Jack London. But it is even too early for prophecy—it remains to be seen if oil and literature can mix.—Christian Science Monitor.

The director of indigenous arts in Fez, Morocco, recently came upon a book written in the fourteenth century and describing Fez as it was at that time. The director has compared the statements in the book with Fez as it is today, and finds the book to be perfectly up to date. If reprinted it would pass very well as a modern account of present day Fez. The people of Fez are still doing things just as they did them in medieval times.

Get Well

It is indeed hard to stand at one side while the stream of life flows by. A man or woman condemned to sickness that does not permit him or her to perform the active duties of life, to do his or her share of the world's work, is a pathetic figure deserving sympathy.

Much sickness, pain and misery result from disordered kidneys and bladder. Failure of the kidneys to do their work properly and filter impurities out of the blood leads to rheumatic pains, backache, nerve troubles, stiff or swollen joints, puffiness under eyes, floating spots, biliousness, bladder weakness, constipation, or other symptoms of kidney trouble.

Foley Kidney Pills

are effective in removing the cause of the trouble for they strengthen and invigorate weak or diseased kidneys and help them to normal functioning so that the blood stream is purified and the cause of disease removed.

F. M. Foley (Baltimore, Md.) writes: "Two bottles of Foley Kidney Pills relieved all symptoms of my kidney and bladder trouble, stopping the backache and pains, correcting the bladder action, clearing secretions. I am also free from dizziness and floating spots before my eyes. Foley Kidney Pills cured me and have my heartfelt recommendation."

A Question.

By The Growler.

When the workmen own the work-shops,
And the railroad men the rails
And the grocery clerks the groceries,
And the mail clerks own the mail;

When the preachers own the pulpits,
And the pressmen own the shops;
And the drillers own the oil wells,
And the jails are owned by cops;

When conductors own the street cars,
And each driver owns his bus,
Will someone tell us other folks
Whatinell becomes of us?

"Live for something, have a purpose,
And that purpose keep in view;
Drifting like a helpless vessel,
Thou canst ne'er to life be true."

"Half the wrecks that strew life's ocean,
If some star had been their guide,
Might have long been riding safely—
But they drifted with the tide."

The Low Cost Of Advertising Space.

Few advertising men know that the advertising space in the newspapers is by far the economical way to reach the consumer. It is a fact and the only reason that advertising was ever created was because wise and shrewd business men learned that they could buy white space in publications at a minimum cost and because of the message they would put into that space they could make a profit on the transaction and make the advertising a real investment in production of sales and good-will.

In these days of high cost of white paper and printing the advertiser could not print a full-page advertisement and buy the white paper at the small cost that the newspaper charges him for the complete page delivered into the home by invitation. That is to say, the readers of this newspaper buy a paper because they want to read it and because they know they get more for their money at 2 or 3 cents than anything else they could buy at that price. That is what makes the advertising so valuable to the advertiser provided they have the right message, the right illustration and the right merchandising plan back of the advertising.

Newspaper advertising is by far the most economical method to reach the consumer.

Fox Can Be Tamed.

No wild animal is more easily domesticated than the fox, either red or gray, and none exhibits so much sly cunning when tamed, says the American Forestry Magazine, but they are susceptible of a very high degree of affection for whoever has them in charge.

Whitewash as a Fire-Proofing.

Tests made of the fire-resisting paints have demonstrated that these are fairly effective for small amounts of wood. Ordinarily calcimine or whitewash has proved in tests to be as fire-resistant as any paint covering tried. It is cheap and convenient to use. Although it will not prevent the burning of wood exposed continuously to a high heat, a good coat of calcimine on wood will decrease the danger of a blaze spreading from burning cigarettes, sparks, matches and similar small sources of fire. Calcimine is, of course, more effective for inside than for outside use.

Lord Rensley's Bride

By FREDERICK CLARKE

(Copyright, 1921, Western Newspaper Union)

All London society was whispering and questioning, for Lord Rensley was on his way home to England after an absence of a year. He had shot tigers in India, had speared salmon in Alaska, and hunted grizzlies in the wilds of western Canada. And all the while Lady Rensley had kept open house at the Abbey. Now he was expected home; he would arrive in two weeks. Actually he arrived a week earlier and unexpectedly.

They had been married nearly three years before. Lady Rensley had been Miss Edith Kane of Cleveland, and her father was one of the 12 richest men in America. The marriage had been considered singularly fortunate, for the Rensley family dated back 500 years—though not the title, and his lands were extensive, although unprofitable. Miss Kane's dowry would restore the old abbey and enable her husband and herself to assume their rightful place in the social hierarchy. And so Rensley had won the beauty of Cleveland.

He and his bride were face to face in their apartments at the Eversley hotel. The bride drew off her engagement ring meditatively and handed it to him and said, without a trace of passion:

"I shall wear my marriage ring, but not this. The bargain is an equal one, and I am satisfied. You will never have cause to be ashamed of me in the eyes of the world. Good night, Lord Rensley."

"You mean," he asked, "that our marriage is to be one in name only?"

"Why, what else did you expect?" she answered mockingly, though her lips were quivering. "You never loved me. You sought me for my fortune, as I you for your title." And so she turned away and they said no more.

In due course they sailed for England. Rensley Abbey was redecorated and thrown open. Gay parties assembled there.

Then Rensley sailed for India to shoot tigers, and the parties continued. They were as gay as ever, but different people came. There was Hizzel, for instance, that Italian nobleman who had acquired a sinister reputation in several capitals of Europe, and was not diminishing in London. He brought his attendant crowd: Flashy women came and sporting men and tawdry actors and actresses. And of the character of these people Lady Rensley knew nothing, for she never stooped to gossip, and she only knew that she liked Hizzel and that he alone of all of them seemed to understand her situation and to have sympathy for her.

So she moved among them, innocently, the lonely mistress of the Abbey, while people shrugged their shoulders and smiled. And then they heard that Rensley was coming home. Hizzel, too, heard it, and he put his fate in the touch. In his way he liked this unapproachable American lady as much as he was capable of liking, and as constantly. They were alone for a few minutes in the conservatory. From the ballroom came the sound of music and the chatter of the guests.

He fell upon his knees and seized her hand and pressed it to his lips. "I have ever loved you, you beauty with your secret sorrow. Leave him and come with me to Italy. You shall have my love all your days, and my fortune shall be at your disposal. You shall—"

That was the moment when Rensley returned a week earlier than had been expected. He had sent word, but he had arrived before his own letter. So he had strolled quietly in.

He saw the room brilliantly lighted, but, when he entered the hall, none of the guests knew him.

Then Rensley entered the conservatory alone. And Lady Rensley, seeing him, drew back with a frightened catch of the breath, and Hizzel, knowing him, rose also to his feet and stood looking at him defiantly, with folded arms.

"Pardon me for interrupting," said Lord Rensley. "Haron Hizzel? Yes? Pray, what is it you so urgently desire of Lady Rensley that you go down upon your knees to her?"

Since he did not answer, Rensley turned to his wife.

"My dear, is it in our power, or is it your desire to grant this gentleman what he is asking?" he demanded.

"No," she flushed out in her bewilderment. "No!"

Rensley took Hizzel by the arm.

"My dear fellow, you shall have your five hundred pounds," he said in a loud voice, which carried to those waiting outside. "But I wish you had asked me instead of my wife." He turned to the guests. "Gentlemen, my cars are at your disposal," he said.

Lady Rensley tapped her fingers upon the table.

"I want to tell you one thing before we part," she said. "I have never given you reason to be ashamed of me. I have kept my vow."

Lord Rensley took her hands in his.

"But I have not kept mine," he said. "Edith, let my faith in you be the proof of my love. Will you give me a chance to show its reality?"

That broke her pride; she cried then, in his arms.

"I've been a fool," he said; but she laughed through her tears when he put back the engagement ring upon her finger.

American Legion News

A hallowed mantle of the Grand Army of the Republic falls upon the young shoulders of the American Legion on Memorial Day of this year. Blue-uniformed, with medals upon his breast, the white-haired veteran of the Civil War made the Memorial Day round of the school houses in former years. This year it is the Legion members who will visit the school houses in many communities, telling of a different conflict but teaching the same lessons.

In St. Paul, Minn., the Legion has assumed the task at the request of the G. A. R. itself. Post No. 8 will send 100 men to address the school children of the city and its vicinity.

Andernach, on the Rhine, Germany where the Hoche maidens are the prettiest, once the heart of the thriving iron cross market, is the second stronghold in the German Empire to be occupied by the American Legion. The new post is Andernach Post No. 5. Andernach was headquarters of the Third Division in Third Army days, and now quarters the Second Brigade of the American army of occupation. Amaroc Post No. 4 of the Legion is situated in Coblenz.

Alfred E. Damerson, a member of Steward Whiting Hoover Post of the American Legion at West Point, N. Y., heard the call of the army but found that recruiting had stopped. As second choice, he went back to the farm in Virginia. A few days later, while plowing, he turned up a copper pot containing $15,000 in old gold and silver coins.

Forty-six union men are members of the United Workers of America; four are affiliated with other trade unions. In addition, the post includes six merchants, three farmers, three clerks, two doctors and two school teachers.

Marriage Recalled.

The death of "Gov." John Robinson, the circus king, recalls his marriage about forty years ago. He was in Maysville with his circus and Miss Smith, daughter of Col. Armor Smith, at one time mayor of Cincinnati, came to Maysville by steamboat, she leaving home and parents without their consent or knowledge. She and Mr. Robinson, who met her at the boat, immediately had the ferryboat take them across the river to Aberdeen where they were married by Squire Massie Beazley. Upon their return to this city they were given a great reception and at the circus performance that night they were presented with valuable wedding gifts.—Maysville Bulletin.

Less than a month it is organized, the American Legion post of Bigheart, Okla., began cleaning up the city. Its first move was to purchase trash cans which it placed on every street corner, after which it started a publicity campaign to educate the citizens to use the cans instead of the street.

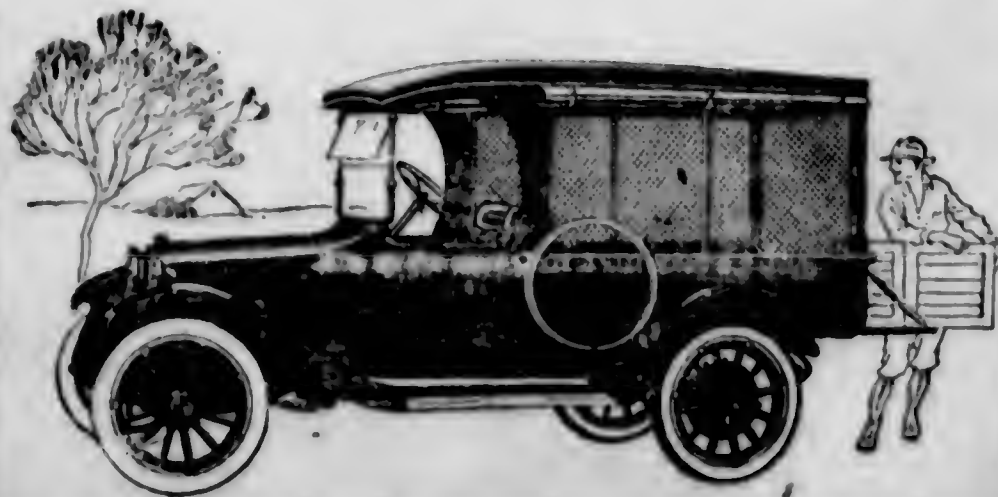

Photographs of the cemeteries in France where their sons lie buried will be supplied to gold star parents of Lynchburg, Va., by the American Legion post there in conjunction with the Kiwanis Club.

Base Ball News.

The base ball fever has hit Lancaster and Garrard County and the two local teams are putting up real classy base ball.

The two teams played four games last week winning three and losing one. They are playing the best teams to be found in Central Kentucky and are making their visiting teams play ball.

Capt. Miller, of the Lancaster All Stars is working hard, whipping his team in shape and we dare predict that we will see some excellent games this base ball season.

The first game was played at Burgin on last Wednesday when the local lads took the Burgin boys in to camp by the score of 8 to 7.

Jenkins was on the mound for the All Stars and pitched a no hit game. The all around playing of Capt. Miller in short was the feature of the game.

Lancaster All Stars Win From Sue Bennett.

In what was considered one of the best games of the season was played on the local diamond when the All Stars beat the Sue Bennett College by the score of 4 to 3.

This was a real pitchers battle and the two teams gave their pitchers good support. Lancaster lead off in the first inning by making one run when in a few innings the Visitors came back and tied the score and also running one ahead. Schooler on the mound pitched a wonderful game and allowed only a very few hits. Capt. Miller on short, Kinnaird on first and Woods on second played an excellent game making several beautiful plays.

The following is the line up of the teams:

Lancaster	Position	Sue Bennett
Kinnaird	1st Base	Watkins
Jenkins	L. Field	Parrett
Walker	3rd. Base	Wilson
Lacey	Catcher	Green
Miller Capt.	S. S.	Muster
Wood	2nd. Base	Potman
Cox	C. F.	Fitzgerald
Hall	R. F.	Whitten
Schooler	Pitcher	Whitten

Two Base Hit, Schooler, Three Hit Cox. Struck out by Schooler 4, by Williams 10, Base on balls off Schooler 1, Williams 1. Umpire Jack Whitaker.

High School Defeats Richmond.

The Lancaster High School Base Ball team defeated the Richmond High on the latter's ground Friday afternoon by the score of 6 to 2.

The High School boys had their opponents outclassed throughout the game and held them to a no hit game. Cox who pitched a dandy good game for the local boys was also there with the goods when he came to the bat, always getting a nice hit. The feature of this game was the all around playing of Bratton who pulled down three long hits which was good for three bases and out of four times at the bat got four hits, making two runs, one a three base hit.

Capt. Cochran's team is putting up some good base ball and this team is considered one of the best in the State.

Nicholasville Defeats All Stars

The Nicholasville team defeated the Town Team on their grounds by the score of 6 to 3. This was a poorly played game owing to the fact that the All Stars had played several games this week and was practically worked down. Schooler was on the mound for the local and pitched his usual good game of ball. The All Stars were handicapped from the fact that they did not have their regular team, however, Capt. Miller played several of his subs and they showed up very good. Capt. Miller also played his usual good game of ball at short.

Play Tomorrow.

The Lancaster team will journey to Paint Lick to cross bats with the Paint Lick boys tomorrow (Friday). This game will be called at 2:30 P. M.

The proceeds of this game will go to the Advisory Board of the Salvation Army.

The Lancaster High School team will meet the Nicholasville High here tomorrow (Friday) at 3:30 P. M. Let's go out and root for the home boys.

COLONEL

WATTERSON

Sounds The War Tocsin

(Montgomery Advertiser.)

Recently a theoretical cook who makes a living by writing rather than by cooking, published a formula for a new kind of cornbread. Commenting upon the recipe, Colonel George Bailey, leading man on the editorial page of the Houston Post, said with some heat: "About that cornbread recipe which includes three-fourths of a cup of sugar. Tell them not to do it. Sugar in cornbread is an abomination. It ought to be made a crime. It violates every tradition of the South. It insults the palate. It mocks the culinary art. When the Lord made corn, He put all the sugar in it He intended to have."

Colonel Henry Watterson, in retirement near Louisville, saw this attack by Bailey upon the newest vice, and though more than 80 years old, the intrepid Colonel rushed to the side of the Texas Colonel to strengthen his arm in the attack.

In a letter to the Courier-Journal, the Kentucky Colonel, after quoting the Texas Colonel, says:

Cornbread with sugar in it was an idea born of the devil, planted in New England and sent South by our enemies. It is threatening the life of real cornbread right in the land of its birth. It has done and is doing worse. It makes men trifling and women frivolous. It is responsible for most of the murders, suicides and divorces. It is the mother of holshivism, and the dabbly of anarchy. It weakens the brain, infuriates the liver and grows people potguttled. It brings corns and baldness and sallowness to the complexion. It makes the nose shiny and the skin pimply.

It drives husbands downtown of nights. It causes the servants to be modest and obstreperous. It creates an appetite for moonshine.

It is the underlying cause of phyornia. It emboldens a man to refuse his wife's request for money. But for sugar in cornbread, there would be no war, no flies or mosquitoes, no ants or roaches, no I. W. W., no Republican party.

Let the Twentieth Amendment to the Constitution forever prohibit sugar in cornbread, and let's have the vote right away.

This would seem all embracing and is sufficiently conclusive. New England may know how to bake beans. They say the cider in Maine is a good substitute for whiskey. It must be admitted that in Boston "pumpkin pie" is no slouch. But, cornbread? La! That requires all that George Bailey says, and a pair of old black hands to boot—and a red bandana handkerchief—and old black mammy's voice, rich, mellow and devotional.

"How firm a foundation ye saints of the Lord."

There is little to add to this except the thanks of the mighty congregation of cornfeds throughout the South. The South has not, in late years, been as true to its political traditions in all respects as it might have been. We remember that a few years ago Colonel Watterson even charged that politically the South had become a land of "degenerates." We thought the term too hard; but if the South forgoes its culinary traditions, after abandoning parts of its political faith, the cry of "degenerate" must be raised again, and allowed to stand.

Let the South be on guard, for the Hun is indeed at the gate. This threat to put sugar in our cornbread is one of the boldest attacks yet made by the enemy, though we confess that a few weeks ago we were slightly disturbed by the sabre-rattling of a writer on table etiquette who fired from behind the breastworks of the Kansas City Star, which has some circulation on the borderland of the South.

This etiquette hound tried to teach us a new way to eat fried chicken. He—or—she sneered at the only way most of us ever knew or cared for, of holding the chicken in the fingers and biting it, and said the proper way was to cut the chicken off the bone with a knife and fork and never touch it with the fingers. As if that could be done!

Now we do not think the Kansas City man is likely to get very far with his attack upon an old and honored custom in the South, but we resent that he could even have thought of the new and hifalutin way of eating chicken and that he should have had the hardihood to propose it publicly. His gesture is at least an alarming symptom, and so we should be on guard.

Else, yielding here and there, we must finally be driven away from even the hot biscuits which have honored the South scarcely less than its warriors, statesmen and poets.

Whitewash as a Fire-Proofing.

Tests made of the fire-resisting paints here demonstrated that they are fairly effective for small amounts of wood. Ordinarily calcimine or whitewash has proved in tests to be as fire-resistant as any paint covering tried. It is cheap and convenient to use. Although it will not prevent the burning of wood exposed continuously to a high heat, a good coat of calcimine on wood will decrease the danger of a blaze spreading from burning cigarettes, sparks, matches and similar small sources of fire. Calcimine is, of course, more effective for inside than for outside use.
